This program is designed to provide a solid foundation in theory, design, and function of firearms. It will prepare the student for an entry-level position in the firearms industry or provide a building block toward owning a business as a gunsmith. The program contains both lecture and significant hands-on training designed to instill an understanding of the design and function of today's firearms. If you are seeking employment in the firearms industry, it is highly recommended to have machining experience and knowledge, such as that gained through FVCC's Industrial Machine Technology program.

Practical application of knowledge in a safe and professional manner is prioritized. Emphasis is placed upon the completion of several gunsmith projects from blueprints and schematics using a combination of both hand and machine tools. The student will acquire the basic knowledge to get started customizing guns. The program provides a clear understanding of firearms function, enabling graduates to assist with design or tolerance issues in a manufacturing environment.
